

The Award Goes to SHELLEY BERKLEY.

Shelley Berkley has launched a misleading and false attack on Dean Heller, claiming that he voted to “end Medicare.”

That's a lie.

Independent watchdog group PolitiFact has awarded the attack the 2011 “Lie of the Year.”¹

That's the truth.

But that hasn't stopped Berkley and her allies from continuing to repeat the “Lie of the Year” in ad after ad.

That's just wrong.

The truth is, Berkley is the one who voted to cut Medicare.

Berkley actually voted to cut Medicare by $700 billion.²

But it's not the first or last time Berkley has lied.

Berkley recently tried to take credit for legislation she did not write.

Berkley held a press conference to promote legislation where she called it her own, when in fact a Congressman from Illinois wrote it.³

She took credit for something she didn't do.

We just can't trust anything Shelley Berkley does or says.

VOTE NO ON SHELLEY BERKLEY.
